

Statement on Supporting Vaccine Recommendations from Leading Medical Societies

September 17, 2025

The Common Health Coalition strongly supports the science-based respiratory vaccine recommendations set forth by national medical societies, including those recently published by AAFP, AAP and ACOG. These clinical recommendations are rooted in the latest evidence, which demonstrates these vaccines are safe and effective.

Vaccination remains the best way to protect against respiratory viruses like the flu, RSV, and COVID-19 – and their potentially serious complications – and to ensure that children grow up safe from other preventable diseases such as Hepatitis B, measles and pertussis (whooping cough).

We also commend AHIP and ACHP, founding members of the Coalition, for their recent statements affirming continued coverage of vaccines with no cost sharing. Together, we can ensure patients and communities have the access to these life-saving vaccines that they deserve.

Signatories

America's Physician Groups
American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy
American Association of Psychiatric Pharmacists
American Pharmacists Association
American Public Health Association
Council of Medical Specialty Societies
Immunize.org
National Community Pharmacists Association
Your Local Epidemiologist

We invite members and other partner organizations to join us in our commitment to following medical society guidance – email info@commonhealthcoalition.org for materials or to re-share this statement.

Contact: info@commonhealthcoalition.org