

The AACP Annual Meeting Program Committee would like to provide additional guidance to members for consideration when planning and preparing programming submissions for the AACP Annual Meeting.

In an effort to further attract a diverse pool of high-quality submissions and ensure a diverse range of presentation topics and perspectives, the program committee has set a limit of three (3) programming submissions per individual.

Please note this applies to all submissions (60-minute sessions, 30-minute sessions and conversation world cafés) in which the individual is involved as a speaker, moderator, chair, facilitator, or submitter. An individual may NOT be included on additional proposals, regardless of their role. Additionally, if an individual's 30-minute or 60-minute session is selected by a Section or SIG, that also counts toward the three maximum number of submissions.

The program committee hopes this will encourage diversity of individuals presenting while maintaining high-quality presentations at the AACP Annual Meeting. Additionally, the committee encourages members who regularly submit to work with and/or mentor others who may be new to AACP or have not presented at the Annual Meeting.
